¹ To be free to do something.

² Ardkinglass refers to the 5th earl's letter of 24 January 1565, GD112/39/6/25 - not printed, which was sent from Lochgoilhead in Cowal by the 'high gate', presumably the Highland route through Argyll into Breadalbane, despite the time of year.

³ Articles.

⁴ The 5th earl had convened a major clan council which offered Grey Colin two options in dealing with the MacGregors and also agreed to a stent (tax) of 2 merks per markland to help the earl with his debts.
