

A-Level Students

Results from tests show that there is no significant difference in performance in ILA between students with one A- Level compared to those with two A-Levels.

(Based on results from 60 students)

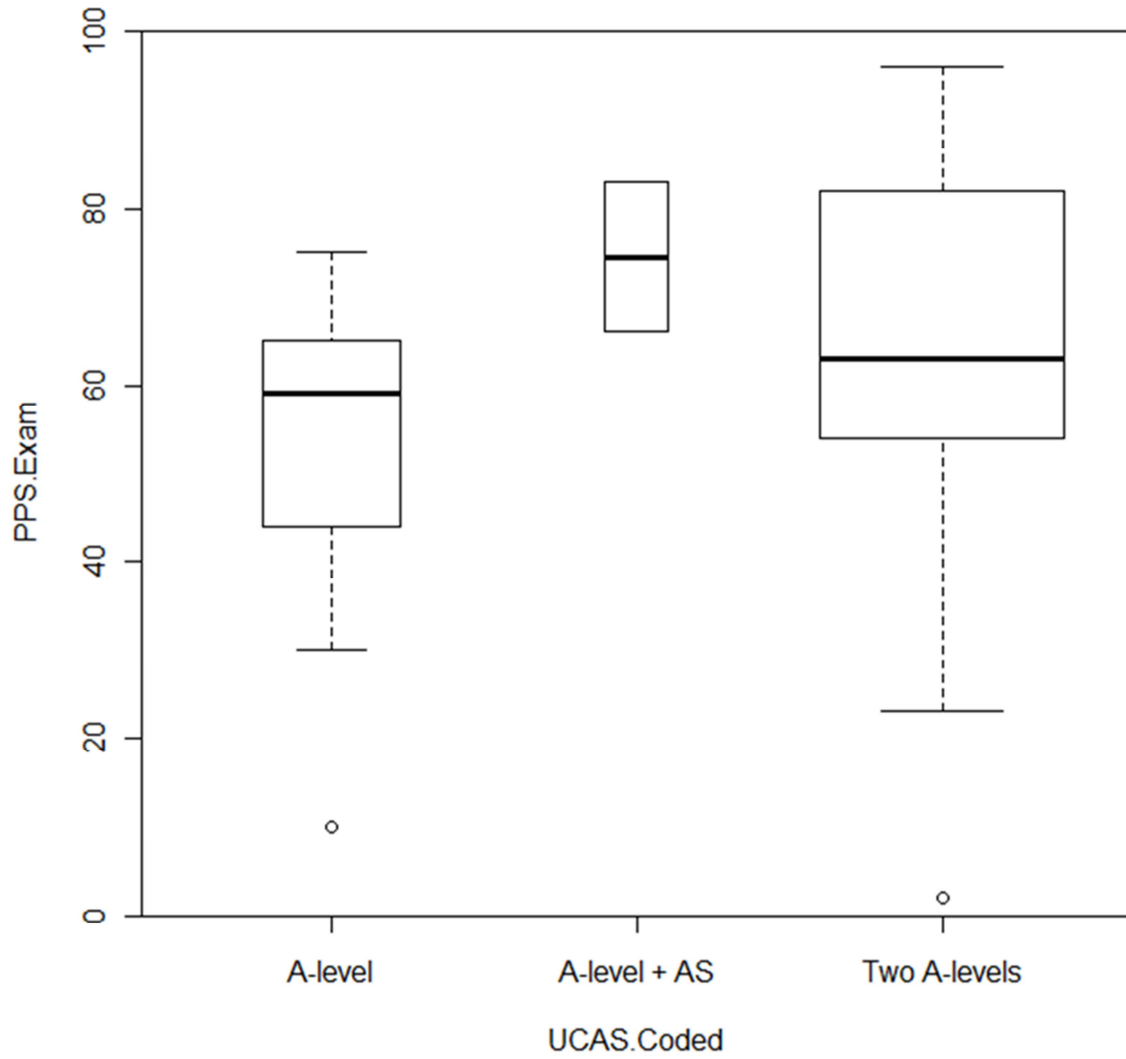

CAP Exam Result given A-level Tariff

There is no significant difference in CAP exam performance between those with a single A-Level and those with an A-Level + AS however there is a significant difference in CAP exam performance between those with a single A-Level and those with two A-Levels.

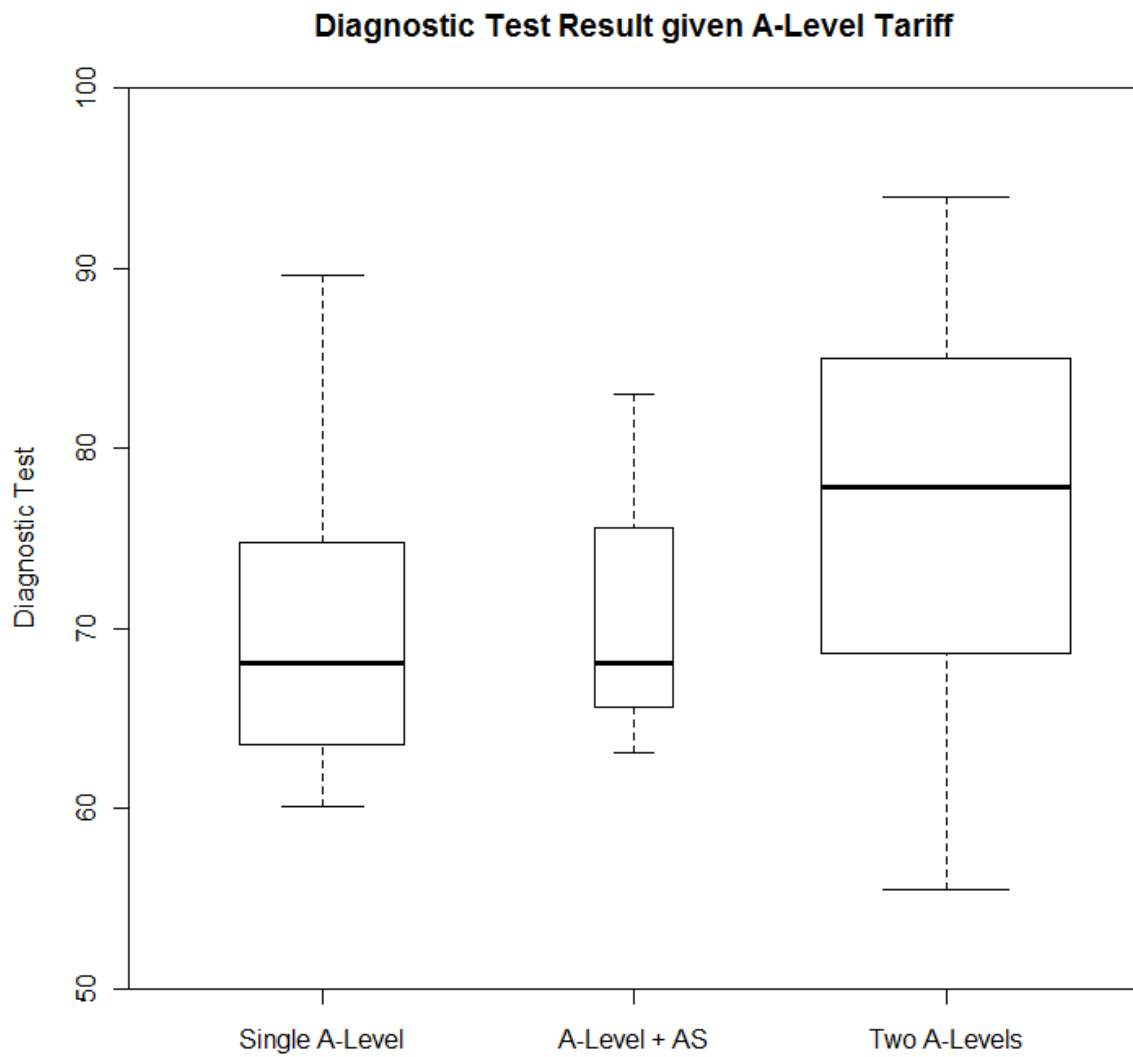

(Based on results from 50 students)

PPS Exam Result given A-level Tariff

Results from tests show that there is no significant difference in performance in PPS between students with one A- Level compared to those with two A-Levels.

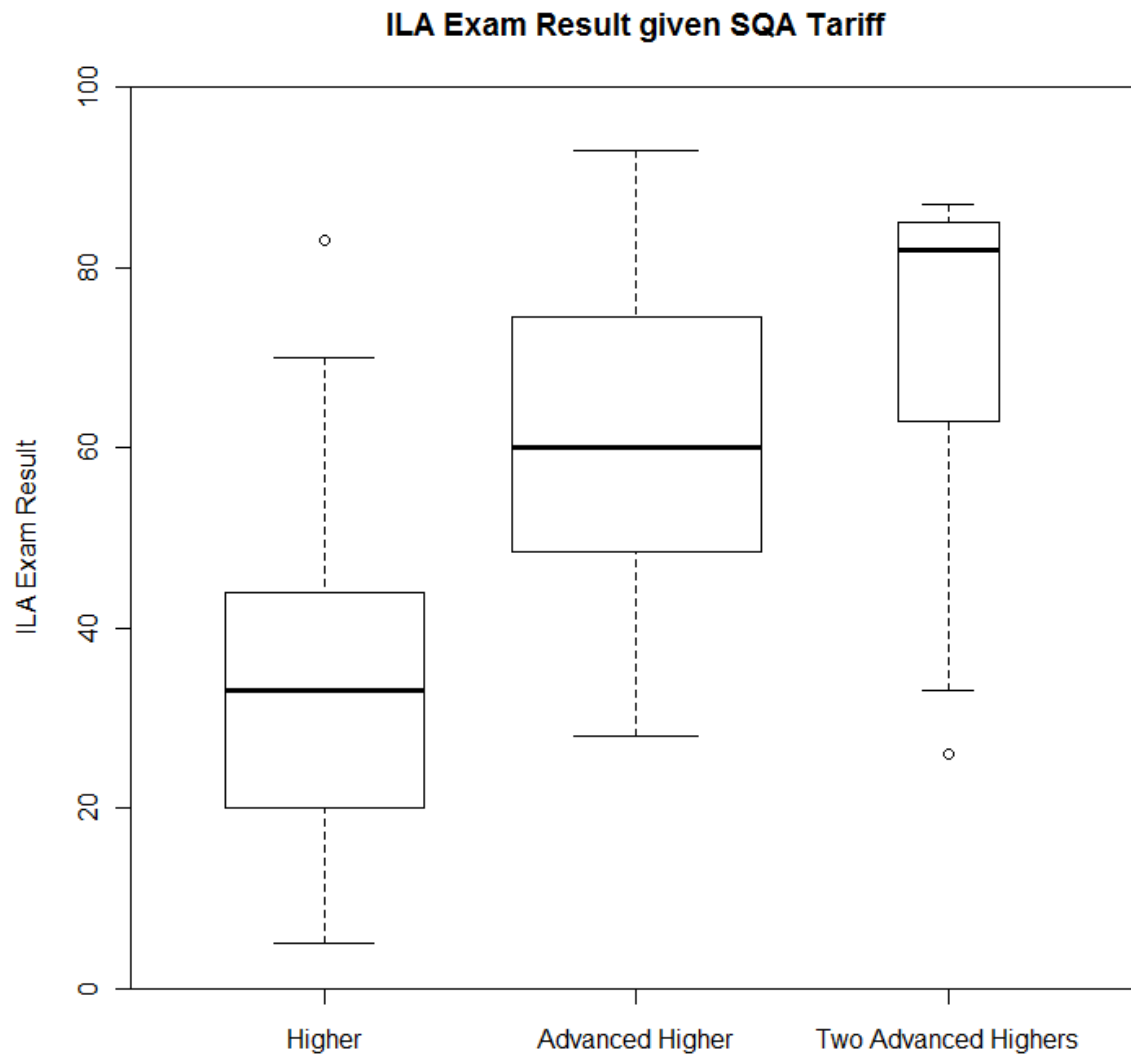

(Based on results from 40 students)

Results show that there is no significant difference in diagnostic test score between students studying one A-Level, one A-Level +AS and those studying two A-Levels.

(Based on results from 46 students)

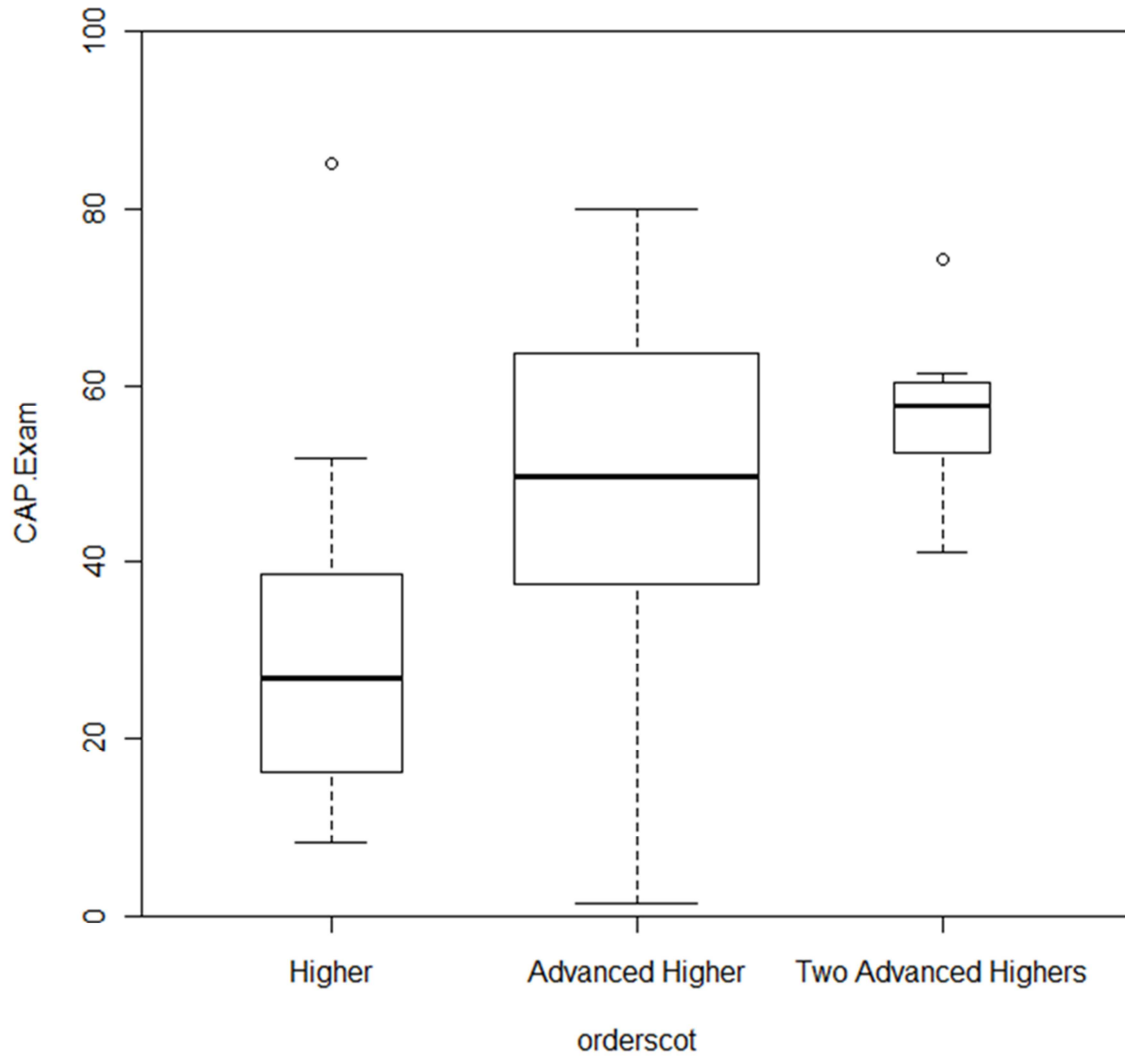

SQA's

Results show there is a significant difference in ILA exam performance between those with only Higher and those with Advanced Higher. There is no significant difference between those with one Advanced Higher and those with two.

(Based on results from 99 students)

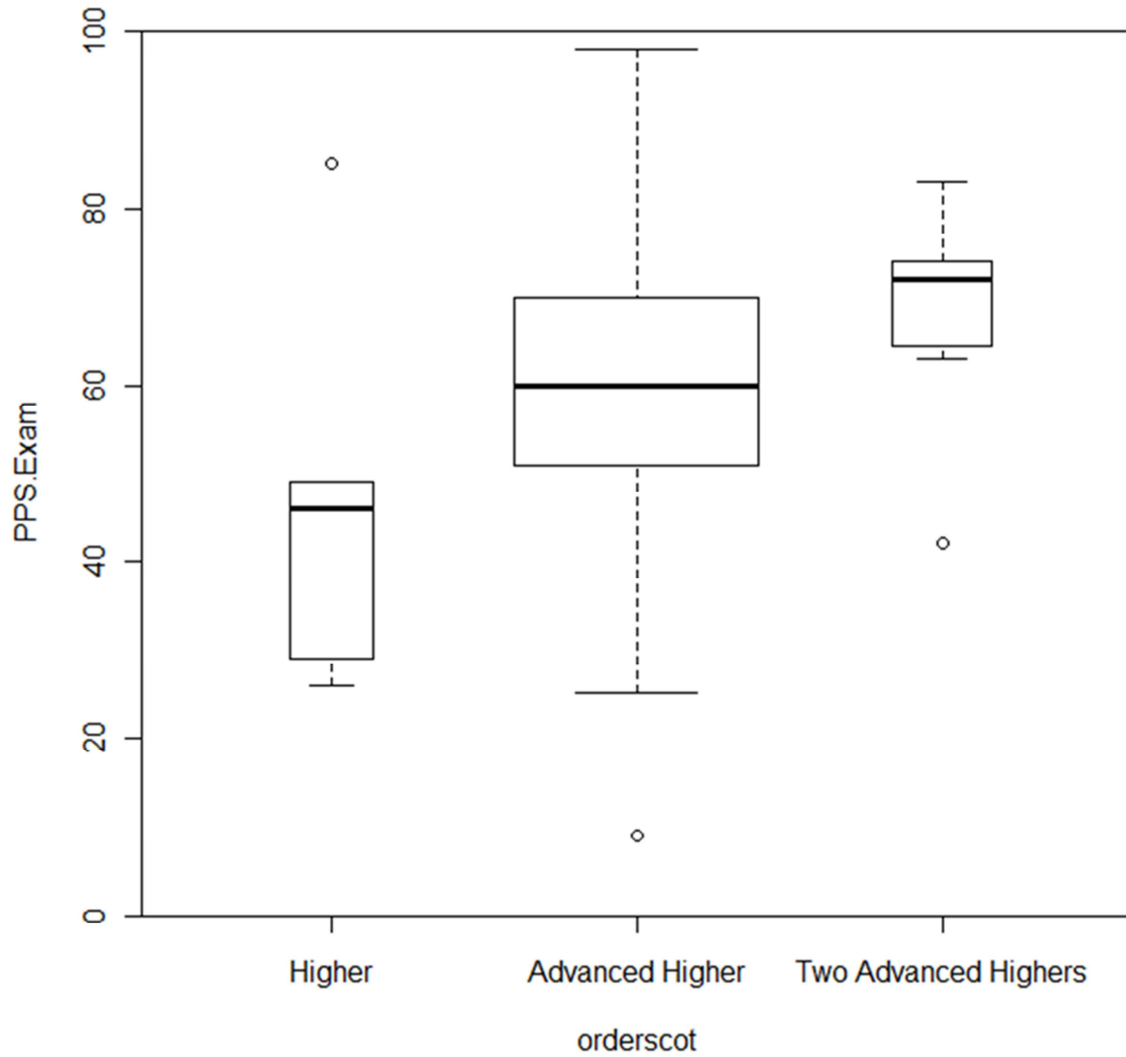

CAP Exam Result given SQA Tariff

Again results show there is a significant difference in CAP exam performance between those with only Higher and those with Advanced Higher. Also there is no significant difference between those with one Advanced Higher and those with two.

(Based on results from 76 students)

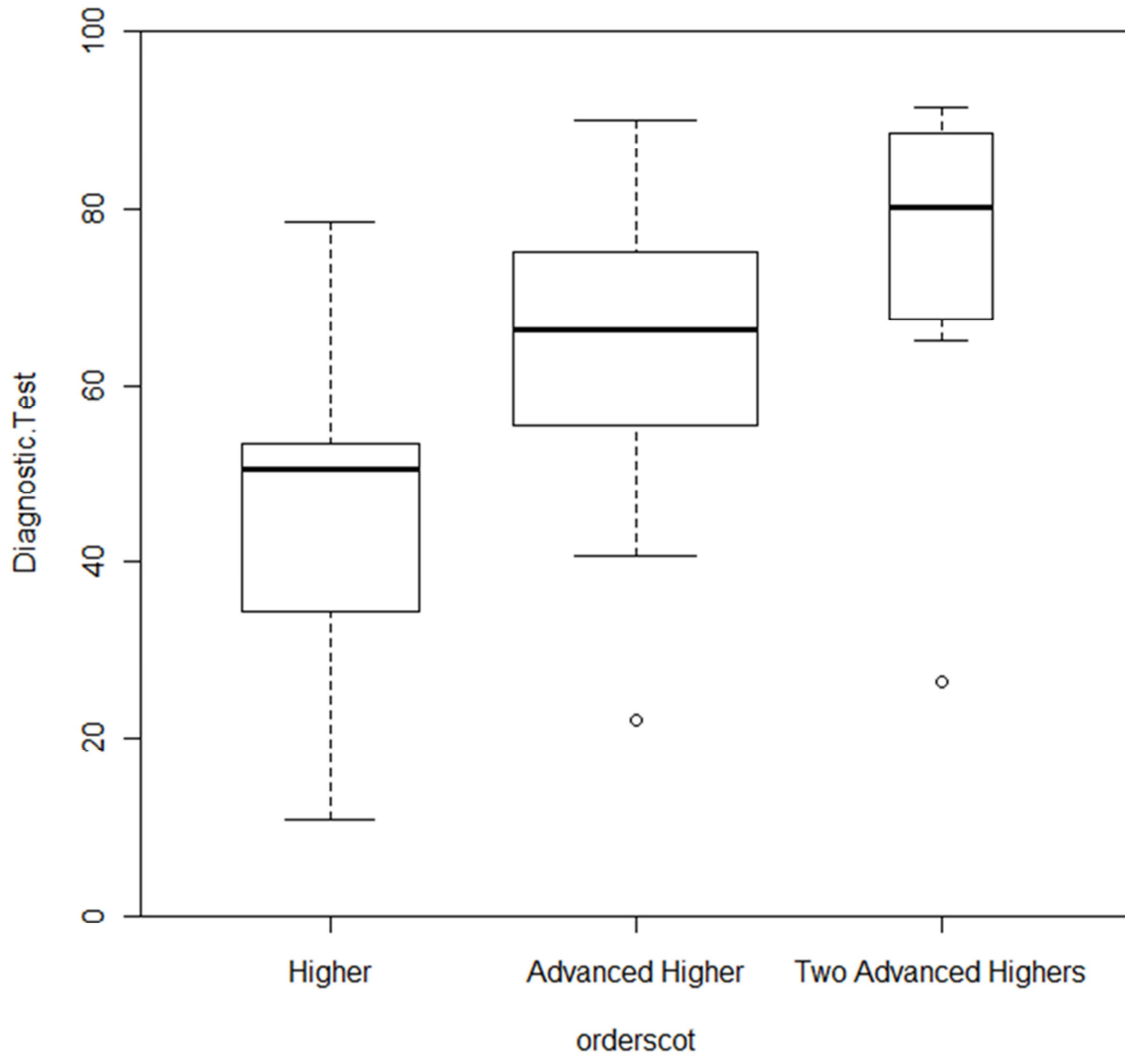

PPS Exam Result given SQA Tariff

Results show that there is a significant difference in PPS exam performance between those who studied Higher and those who studied Advanced Higher. However there is no significant difference between those studying one Advanced Higher and those studying two.

(Based on results of 54 students)

Diagnostic Test Score given SQA Tariff

Results show there is a significant difference in diagnostic test score between those who only studied Higher and those who continued on to study Advanced Higher. There is no significant difference between students with one Advanced Higher and those with two.

(Based on results from 75 people)