The Principal's Teaching Award Scheme (PTAS): special call for projects related to “Lecture Recording”

Every year, all staff with learning, teaching or student support roles are welcome to apply for funding for either a pedagogical research project, or a learning and teaching innovation project. Grants may be “small” (up to £1,500) or “regular” (up to £15,000). We gratefully acknowledge that annual funding for the Principal's Teaching Award Scheme is provided by the University of Edinburgh Development Trust.

We are delighted to announce that over the next 3 years, 2017-2020 we will be awarding £25K per annum additional funding provided by Information Services for projects related to the university’s introduction of lecture recording. Relevant topics might include, but are not limited to:

- How exactly do students make use of recorded lectures? eg catching up, reviewing, accessing lectures from outside immediate subject area
- What is the impact on their learning, including academic skills, such as notetaking and discussion?
- What is the impact on teaching? eg new pedagogies supported by lecture recording
- Student satisfaction with lecture recording
- Recruitment of under-represented groups
- Supporting particular student groups eg different disciplines, geographical locations, personal circumstances
- Use of analytics to support learning
- Impact on use of other technologies, eg Top Hat
- What’s happening in other institutions?
- Impact on student mental health, eg relieving anxiety
- Using recorded lectures in teacher development and accreditation

Application is through the normal PTAS route below. Please mark your application “Lecture Recording”:
