The University of Edinburgh received the HR Excellence in Research Award from the European Commission in September 2010 and retained it in 2012. This document and the associated summary report form the basis of the four year review process which considers our progress over the last 2 years and plans for the future in supporting the principles detailed in the Concordat to Support the Career Development of Researchers. This should be read in conjunction with our key supporting documents the University Strategic Plan and the University People Strategy. The updated action plan incorporates continuing actions from the original plan and actions that build on our progress and align with the University’s current Strategic Plan (2012-16) and the new People Strategy. Progress will be monitored by the IAD and UHRS, reporting to the Senate Researcher Experience Committee, and through the regular review of the People Strategy implementation. Identifying specific actions beyond 2016 will be considered as the new Strategic Plan is written and developed. This plan and the associated report can be viewed on line at: http://www.ed.ac.uk/schools-departments/institute-academic-development/research-roles/research-only-staff/advice/concordat/hr-award

Actions Related to Recruitment & Selection and Recognition & Value (Concordat Principles 1 & 2)

1. Recognition of the importance of recruiting, selecting and retaining researchers with the highest potential to achieve excellence in research.

2. Researchers are recognised and valued by their employing organisation as an essential part of their organisation’s human resources and a key component of their overall strategy to develop and deliver world-class research.

2013. PIRLS data identified an 11% increase in PIs who received an appraisal from 73% in 2011 to 84% in 2013. These results are consistent with the national average and contributing to our institutional return rate which increased from 72% in 2012/13 to 92% in 2013/14. This will continue to be monitored through CROS and PIRLS, and through the UHRS internal measures over the next four years.

Review and Policy

Complete the review of redundancy consultation and redeployment processes and implement changes by April 2013. Lead: UHRS

Establish a dedicated Relocation Support Service by July 2014 to provide assistance to new members of staff, including research staff and their families when relocating to Edinburgh to make the transition and settlement easier. Lead: UHRS

Undertake a review of our Advertising strategy by December 2013, to include harnessing Euraxess Advertising routes more effectively for recruiting researchers. Review how our HR Excellence in Research Award is promoted during the recruitment process. Lead: UHRS

Complete and On-going

Work is continuing on the redeployment process and this work should be completed in early 2015. The redundancy consultation process is complete and now available: http://www.docs.csg.ed.ac.uk/HumanResources/Policies/Redundancy_Individual_Consultation_Processes.pdf

On-going

The July 2014 deadline has slipped but the documents are finished and should be agreed and in use from early November 2014.

Incomplete and reprioritised

This failed to achieve significant IT resourcing in 2013 and remains in the action plan for 2014 onwards. This work will be expanded to include utilising social media effectively when recruiting researchers.

Continuing

The review and rewrite of the Code of Practice was put on hold pending the University People Strategy and Action Plan. This is an on-going target for 2014 – 16. The update will include the HR Excellence in Research badge, updates on policy and provision, and a new quick guide for PIs. In the interim a quick guide has been updated and is used at induction for Research Staff and in PI courses on good management practice.

Examples of continuing actions from 2010 and 2012 (now part of regular business)

- The University had now replaced its Code of Good Practice in Research with the UKRIO Code: http://www.ed.ac.uk/schools-departments/institute-academic-development/research-roles/research-only-staff/advice/codes/research-code
- College HR advisors offer meetings to all staff at risk of redundancy, irrespective of their contract type, to discuss future options, and support available. This is an on-going and important part of the support process for staff at risk of redundancy. In addition to the confidential one-to-one career development consultations that are made available at any time to all research staff by IAD, a new range of workshops has been put in place by HR to support staff at risk of redundancy: http://www.ed.ac.uk/schools-departments/human-resources/learning-development/dev-opportunities/transition
- The eRecruitment website and system continues to offer improvements in applicant and selection panel experience and is improving monitoring and data collection. Training for University users is available on line: http://www.ed.ac.uk/news/staff/e-recruit-011012
- The development of redeployment guidance for recruiters, a Talent Register, career transition workshops, a modernised Redundancy Avoidance Policy developed in partnership with trade unions are supporting staff at risk of redundancy and enhancing capacity to attract and retain new talent.
HR Excellence in Research: Action Plan 2014 - 16

Actions 2014 – 2016

The University has an on-going commitment to clear and transparent routes to recruitment and progression. Progress in these areas will focus around improving procedures to enhance the employer branding of The University to ensure we attract and retain the best researchers from a diverse range of backgrounds. Specific activities will include:

- Establish a dedicated Relocation Support Service in 2015 to provide assistance to new members of staff, including research staff and their families when relocating to Edinburgh to make the transition and settlement easier. This will include UKBA advice, information and links to relevant information. Lead: UHRS

- Develop exemplars of practice in teaching, research, interdisciplinary research and public engagement to highlight differing routes to reward, recognition and promotion. This will be an incremental project delivering throughout 2015 and 2016. Lead UHRS with colleagues from around the University

- Continue to push the importance of effective appraisals with managers and monitor uptake for all staff. Review numbers of staff receiving regular annual reviews with an aim to increase numbers above the national average for PIs and Research staff as measured by CROS and PIRLS in 2015. Lead: UHRS with IAD

- Promote best practice in appraisal by encouraging uptake on the online Appraisal Training Workshop and through best practice training courses for PIs. Aim to show improvement in the satisfaction with appraisals as measured by CROS in 2015. Lead: UHRS with IAD

- Review appraisal documentation across the University, identify differences in forms and terminology and ensure all areas are compliant with best practice. Lead: UHRS and College HR teams

- Review and revise the Code or Practice for the Management of Research Staff by spring 2015 to include changes in policy and practice, align with the People Strategy and promote awareness of the HR Excellence in Research Badge. Hold a launch event for key stakeholders and research staff society convenors to highlight the changes in 2015. Circulate the new document to both research staff and their managers through training courses, inductions and research staff societies. Lead: IAD

- Update quick guide to the Code or Practice for the Management of Research Staff by spring 2015 to ensure it aligns with the overarching document. Use this to highlight changes in policy to Heads of School and College and senior managers around the University. Include the quick guide in course handbooks for PI and research staff training. Lead: IAD

- Continue to review and monitor effectiveness of eRecruitment system, adding minor enhancements as required and review in 2016. Lead: UHRS

- In the longer term (beyond 2016) undertake a review of our advertising strategy including harnessing Euraxess advertising routes effectively; utilising social media and promoting the HR Excellence in Research Award when recruiting researchers. Aim to have greater awareness of the HR Excellence Badge, the Concordat and the Code of Practice by new staff, measured via CROS (2017) Lead: UHRS with the IAD

Actions Related to Support and Career Development  (Concordat Principles 3 & 4)
3. Researchers are equipped and supported to be adaptable and flexible in an increasingly diverse, mobile, global research environment.
4. The importance of researchers’ personal and career development, and lifelong learning, is clearly recognised and promoted at all stages of their career.

<td>During 2012 the University has made a major investment in the future of its academic staff with the appointment of 100 prestigious Fellowships across all disciplines. IAD, in consultation with UHRS, Colleges and Schools, is designing, developing, implementing and reviewing a structured suite of induction, orientation and professional development for Chancellor's Fellows throughout 2013. <td>In 2013 the University announced 100 more fellows and it is likely that we will welcome another 50 in 2014. With this in mind the learning from the Chancellors Fellows project has been transferred to both UHRS and IAD. IAD have restructured their induction course to mirror the Welcome Day arranged for Chancellors Fellows which was deemed to be more effective. The Welcome Day is an interactive and participative programme run in collaboration with support services including Careers, Edinburgh Research and Innovation, Public Engagement Networks, Teaching and Learning enhancement colleagues, UHRS, and Information Services. All existing courses are now mapped to the RDF and this is highlighted as part of the course description online. New courses are mapped before they are released for booking. After a trial period of 12 months, the visual representation of the RDF was removed from the website as feedback suggested it was cumbersome and did not add to understanding (text links to the relevant domains remain). The use of RDF imagery will be reviewed in 2016 once the University website has migrated onto a new content management system (due to take place throughout 2015 and 2016).

An initial pilot of the RDF planner was deemed unsuccessful due to lack of participant engagement. Feedback suggests the planner is too large and overwhelming. However, since January 2014, use of the existing MyCareer portal increased by 9% despite a lack of advertising. The decision has been made to remain with MyCareer for the short term; however an additional small-scale pilot is currently running which links the RDF to specific courses. The success of this will be reviewing in 2015 (see below).

In addition the IAD have developed a CPD Framework for Learning and Teaching, which is now accredited by the Higher Education Academy. This extensive and ambitious CPD Framework allows multiple flexible routes to professional recognition by the Higher Education Academy which can be adapted to the particular interests and roles of staff. This includes enhanced support for those who take on Tutoring and Demonstrating roles. Edinburgh is the first of the Scottish Ancient Universities to have a complete framework accredited. This work began in July 2013.

This is contributing to an identified need in CROS 2013 where research staff identified that they would like additional training in lecturing and teaching.

UHRS are developing a leadership and management development roadmap by July 2012.  It will signpost the most appropriate and available development options at each stage of a management career path – including research management - aligned to descriptions of the knowledge, skills and experience required in the University. This will support and encourage reflection on individuals’ present and future development needs and will support performance discussions.

- The establishment of the Institute for Academic Development has secured funding for researcher development activity and highlighted this as a core element of support for University staff:
http://www.ed.ac.uk/iad

- There is an agreed strategy and mechanisms in place relating to the future funding of researcher development activity, from PhD fees and research staff grants. This will continue to be monitored and reviewed by the Director of IAD and the IAD Advisory Group.

- There continues to be a wide range of leadership and management development offered to academic staff by UHRS - all available to (and accessed by) research managers/leaders.

The University has established mechanisms to ensure the personal, professional and career development needs of researcher are met. Our commitment to this is highlighted in the People Strategy, which includes supporting the leadership capabilities and enhancing development as two of the five themes. - Enhance one to one support for researchers in 2015 through an expansion of the mentoring pilot across the whole University and making it available to all staff. Lead: UHRS with IAD, and by offering 5 coaching sessions to all participants on the 4 day Research Leaders Course for new and aspiring PIs. Lead IAD.

- The CROS 2013 survey highlighted that research staff would like additional training in research impact, supervision of students and career management. The IAD are exploring ways of improving training in these areas and highlighting existing opportunities. The research staff societies have also requested a “Fellowships” course exploring how to write successful fellowship applications. Throughout 2015 the IAD will explore how to deliver this effectively as part of the core programme. Lead: IAD

- Promote University wide roll out of the Leadership and Management Development framework. Lead: UHRS

The IAD and HR are working together to streamline communications on provision. To date this has involved ensuring that IAD and UHRS Learning and Development pages cross reference each other, and ensuring that IAD courses are included in recommendations for training provision in the UHRS leadership and management framework. The University’s Researcher-Led Initiative Fund, established in 2009, and managed by IAD, continues to encourage and support researchers in devising, organising and providing local training and development activities with a career development focus. Many successful projects have been supported with a number developing into self-sustaining enterprises. IAD will continue to promote this initiative for researchers taking responsibility for their development. Lead: IAD

Completed and Continuing
Since October 2012 we have had 36 successful applications to the Researcher Led Fund 33% of which included research staff. Many successful projects are now developing into self-sustaining enterprises. http://www.ed.ac.uk/schools-departments/institute-academic-development/research-roles/research-only-staff/funding/researcher-led-fund

Past Projects: http://www.ed.ac.uk/schools-departments/institute-academic-development/research-roles/research-only-staff/funding/rl-funded-previous

In 2014 the success of this fund and in response to requests from academic and research staff this programme was expanded to include a new fund. The Academic Researcher-Led Networking fund is available for all staff to apply to in order to support the formation of academic and interdisciplinary networks. In its pilot year the IAD received 45 applications requesting over £163,000 of funding and the IAD were able to fund 10 projects. Completed and Continuing
IAD continues to offer support and advice to the Universities Research Staff Societies, promoting and inputting to their events and activities and organising networking and collaborations between them. This will continue and further opportunities for developments sought. Lead: IAD

Applicants came from 14 School across the 3 Colleges. Evaluation of the scheme will take place in November 2014.

Continuing

The IAD has continued to grow support and advice for Research Staff Societies. The IAD now engages with 9 Societies and hosts a network meeting for the society convenors and organisers at least twice a year. This meeting offers the IAD a chance to collect feedback on activity and policy, including feeding into the HR Excellence actions. In addition it gives the societies a chance to request additional support. At the request of the convenors network the IAD now manages and maintains an up to date mailing list for all research staff societies and has a number of updated web pages.
http://www.ed.ac.uk/schools-departments/institute-academic-development/research-roles/research-only-staff/networks/societies

In 2012 REC expanded membership to include a representative from the research staff societies. This was further expanded in 2014 to ensure that representation from all 3 Colleges, allowing research staff to influence enhancements in provision and policy. This membership will be reviewed annually.
http://www.ed.ac.uk/schools-departments/academic-services/committees/researcher-experience/committee-members

In addition the IAD have used the Vitae networking space “Basecamp” to provide virtual meeting space for some of our research societies, but more specifically to allow them to engage effectively with the UK Research Staff Association (UKRSA).

Examples of continuing actions from 2010 and 2012 (now part of regular business)

- MyCareer was launched in September 2010 and continues to prove popular despite advertising being limited whilst the IAD reviews implementation of the RDF planner:

Encouraging researchers to proactively engage in their own development continues to be a challenge; however this area has seen much improvement in the past 4 years and will continue to grow. Enhancement in this area over the next two years will focus on improving the support offered to Research Staff Societies and considering new ways to disseminate knowledge of the opportunities available and the benefits of such development. Specific activities will include:

- Previous work with Research Staff Societies has helped the researchers themselves to identify key problems with engagement in society activity. The IAD will continue to work with societies to explore solutions to these issues. This will include expanding on web resources advice and information, considering the feasibility and role of Academic Champions and identifying sustainable funding and support structures for societies at a departmental level. A paper to support the legitimisation of Research Staff Societies (building on work achieved with Undergraduate Societies) is due to go to REC in 2014/15. Lead: IAD

- In 2015 the Senate Researcher experience Committee will consider the findings of a 2014 Task Group exploring research staff needs in order to find implementable solutions to gaps in provision and support. Lead: IAD and REC

- Beginning in 2014, the IAD and UHRS will continue to work together to streamline and simplify the support on offer to research staff and look for innovative mechanisms to promote courses, opportunities for support, funding streams and a growing number of online resources. Lead: IAD and UHRS

- In 2015, the IAD will implement strategies to improve the uptake of CROS and PIRLS surveys. This will include a number of lunchtime and evening social events where staff from the IAD will be on hand with IT to encourage researchers to take part. These events will highlight the importance of the survey and tell researchers what we have done as a result of previous year’s feedback. Lead: IAD

- The IAD is also a founding member of a new network of researcher developers working together to consider best practice in this area and review strategies to overcome challenges. This group will meet for the first time in September 2014. Lead: IAD

- As highlighted elsewhere, the IAD will explore the feasibility of rolling out pilot PI management training to ensure the managers of research staff understand and deliver best practice in the recruitment, appraisal and development of their research teams. Lead: IAD, College Deans of Research and REC

- The Researcher Experience Committee will continue to review its membership annually. Lead: REC

- The IAD will evaluate the new Academic Researcher-Led Networking fund in November 2014 to confirm the future of this fund and identify funding sources to ensure sustainability. Lead: IAD

- The IAD will offer research staff societies and UKRSA the opportunity to host a table at the Induction Welcome day event and include information in the Welcome Day packs. The effectiveness of this will be reviewed in 2016. Lead: IAD

Establish a new mentoring pilot and develop framework and programme between October 2012 and April 2013. Conduct initial evaluation and plan expansion of the scheme thereafter. AND The Research Staff Mentoring Programme will be kept under review, especially in the light of the UHRS developments, the support in place for Chancellor’s Fellowship holders and the Athena Swan activities. Lead: IAD and UHRS

The course covers best practice in the recruitment, management and appraisal of research staff, and covers equality and diversity issues through case studies and activities adapted from the Vitae Materials. The course has run 3 times in the College with a total of 50 participants and proposals about making this course compulsory for all PIs are being considered.

Two pilot mentoring programmes ran during 2013/14 using the University of St. Andrews SUMAC platform. The Research Staff Mentoring Programme created 30 partnerships, the UHRS pilot created 104 partnerships from the College of Medicine. Training for mentors and mentees was provided in advance of initial meetings, and significant improvements in online support and information was made. Partnerships were recommended to last 12 months with around two or three hour-long meetings a semester meetings. The popularity and success of the mentoring pilots has established demand and the programmes are currently under review (due for completion by November 2014) to identify a sustainable way forward. It is expected that the 2 programmes will merge to reduce confusion but that both UHRS and the IAD will continue to be involved. ### Actions 2014 – 2016

Equality and Diversity is at the core of both the University Strategic Plan and the People Strategy. Much of equality and diversity practice and policy is now part of core business. The following enhancements will be made over the next 2 years:

- As described elsewhere, the roll out of the “PI Briefing - Managing Your Research Group” across the University and the creation of exemplars of practice in teaching, research, interdisciplinary research and public engagement both support best practice in equality and diversity. Lead: IAD and UHRS
- UHRS and the IAD will work together to look at mechanisms to support equality in reward, recognition, promotion and support for researchers who are working across or between disciplines. Lead: IAD and UHRS
- The University will continue to support departmental submissions to Athena SWAN, and look to achieve institutional silver by 2016. Lead: UHRS
- Update flexible working guidelines (which are currently under review) to reflect forthcoming changes with regards to the sharing of parental leave. Lead: UHRS
- UHRS will design and implement an Equality Impact Assessment Framework which will enable the University to embed good practice across all areas and meet its legal obligations Lead: UHRS
- Implement and embed the University’s Equality Outcomes and Action Plan to ensure that the University is regarded as an exemplar of good practice. Lead: UHRS
- UHRS with the Vice Principal Equality and Diversity are running a number of task groups in 2014/15 to consider improvements in practice in Talent Management, Advancing Gender Equality, and Annual Review. Over the next 2 years these groups will make recommendations for implementations. Lead: UHRS and VP Equality and Diversity
- We will continue to celebrate International Women’s Day with a high-profile speaker and related events. In 2015 Anneila Sargent, the renowned astronomer and Edinburgh alumnus will be giving the lecture Lead: UHRS
- In January 2015 UHRS are launching a scheme to provide coaching for women returning from maternity leave Lead: UHRS
Actions Relating to Monitoring Progress (Concordat Principle 7)

7. The sector and all stakeholders will undertake regular and collective review of their progress in strengthening the attractiveness and sustainability of research careers in the UK.

Examples of continuing actions from 2010 and 2012 (now part of regular business)

- Regular updates are made to the Senate Researcher Experience Committee and then onwards to the University Central Management Group as appropriate. Work also progresses through REC Task Groups.
- The University’s annual Equality and Diversity Monitoring and Research Committee (EDMARC) report provides extensive analysis of the staff (and...

student) populations in relation to equality measures. This report distinguishes research staff in recognition of the distinctiveness and importance of this group. ### Actions 2014 – 2016

Implementation and review is now part of core business and is linked to other initiatives such as the People Strategy implementation plans and Athena SWAN charter. This will continue for the next 4 years. Review will be managed by both the IAD and UHRS and monitored by the Senate Researcher Experience Committee and the University’s Staff Committee. This work will occur in close collaboration with the researchers, through engagement with Research Staff Societies and the Unions. In addition we will continue to benchmark against best practice using CROS, PIRLS, Athena SWAN and publications such as “HR Strategies for Researchers” produced by Vitae. Specific actions include:

- The IAD will lead on the HR Excellence Review between 2014 and 2016, managing the process in conversation with UHRS, REC and research staff as appropriate. Lead: IAD
- UHRS will continue to support the HR Excellence process through monitoring and review of the People Strategy and Action Plan and through initiatives such as Athena SWAN. Lead: UHRS
- Where possible the University will look for efficiencies in strategy and reporting, bringing together actions from the aforementioned drivers. Lead: IAD, UHRS and REC

Broad Success Indicators

Our success will be measured in terms of timely achievement of the actions set out in the Action Plan – many of which include specific deliverables. In addition, our success measures include the following:

- Evidence of progress/improvement in CROS and PIRLS data when compared with previous years. In 2015 this will include a significant improvement in uptake.
- Increase take-up of appraisal/annual review measured in CROS and PIRLS and through internal measures.
- Rollout of our PI development programme to other colleges in the University.
- Achievement of Athena SWAN Silver Award and on-going success at departmental level
- People Strategy Action Plan implementation
- Achievement of relevant University Strategic Plan KPIs (reviewed in summer 2016)
