

Principal's Career Development PhD Scholarship Scheme Support from the Institute for Academic Development (IAD)

Information for Award Holders (PhD Students) and Supervisors

Holders of a Principal's Career Development PhD Scholarship will participate in additional professional development activities tailored to a specific career area (e.g. teaching, public engagement, entrepreneurship). This activity is coordinated and will mostly take place locally (e.g. in Schools or Centres).

The Institute for Academic Development, working with Edinburgh Beltane Beacon for Public Engagement, have identified a range of additional centrally organised training and support that can be accessed by award holders if required. This complements and supplements local activities.

University Teaching

- orientation and enhanced development workshops
- support for recording teaching experiences and applying to the Higher Education Academy for accreditation
- handbooks and other online resources for tutors and demonstrators.
